News joins with Bains to offer free portraits

Rick and Sue Bain, Sierra Madre residents who own Bain Photography, and the Sierra Madre News are sponsoring another subscription contest.

Again this year---as last year---we are offering a 4 x 5-in. color photo (worth $45) to everyone obtaining a new subscription ot the News during the month of May.

Any new subscribers who order the Sierra Madre News during that time will receive a coupon from the News and that coupon entitles them to the portrait. They call the Bain studio at 449-8180 and make reservations for a sitting. Each new subscriber will be able to choose from five poses.

Of course, after these subscribers see the quality of the Bains' work, they might wish to order more copies of the portrait---for Mother's Day, Father's Day, as graduation gifts, or any other reason for giving a family portrait or an individual portrait.

Rick and Sue Bain have been residents of Sierra Madre for 15 years. For 10 years they maintained a photography studio in their home until their outstanding success warranted their moving into larger quarters.

They have their studio at 3843 E. Colorado Blvd., between Michillinda and Rosemead on the north side of the street.

They do all kinds of commercial work, including weddings, graduation photos, regular studio portraits, anything the public requests. This husband and wife team began, Sue says, when she married the boy next door. They both graduated from PHS and PCC, both are photographers and together they have created a very successful photography business.

Both their sons are musicians, and with Boy Scout Troop # 21. Jeffrey, 11, is working on a photograph merit badge in Scouts right now. Their other son, Christopher, is 13. Both attend San Gabriel Christian School.

Now is the time to get that photograph you've been needing worth $45---and as a special bonus you'll get a one-year subscription to the Sierra Madre News, the home-owned paper that services all the foothill area communities.

Braun, Ward receive Scout awards

Erich F. Braun and Jeffrey J. Ward were presented Eagle Scout awards last Wednesday at Sierra Madre Congregational Church, representing Scout Troop 373.

Each youth had taken time to determine a need in Sierra Madre and each promptly resolved to fill that need.

Braun decided that restoring the Bailey Canyon picnic area was of importance to the town, and as early as Oct. 12, 1982, he met with City Administrator Jim McRea and presented the project to him. He received approval from McRea, the troop committee and the District Eagle Scout Board Chairman, and began work.

The city of Sierra Madre supplied most of the materials which amounted to about $110. Braun supplied equipment, tools, and used stones and water found in the area.

The Sierra Madrean led other Scouts in leveling and landscaping areas for tables and trash cans, they cleaned up the area, cemented, then hauled 20 wheelbarrow loads of gravel from the other side of the park to each barbecue pit and fountain.

Jeff Ward planned and built a wooden play structure for Mira Monte Park. He replaced the old tubular swing set with a wooden climbing structure.

He also talked with City Administrator McRea who suggested that the city purchase a new play structure for Ward to build. He went through the City Council, got approval, and the structure was ordered.

Ward led other Scouts who helped him finish the project, even though the rainy season delayed completion since for varnished structures wood must be completely dry. And after the city installed the structure, Ward placed the dome wall in its proper location, completing his Eagle project.

Kealeys take over TV repair from Russo

As of this week, Frank Russo will turn over his television sales and repair business to Dan and Bob Kealey who own a shop in Pasadena. Russo will retire because of illness.

It seems like Russo has been in the business all his life, he says, since he started while in the service in WWII. In fact, he served in Europe as a radar instructor under Gen. Patton.

After service he worked two different places in Pasadena until he joined Ed Rambeau in 1957. In 1975, Russo bought the business and he and his wife, Jerry, have worked it ever since.

Russo says, "Dan and Bob will continue coordination as it has always been here at the company."

The Kealeys explain that the name---Rambeau TV---and phone number will remain the same. "We will provide pick up and drop off service for Sierra Madre. We will answer the phones direct in Pasadena at 1657 E. Colorado."

It's a natural transition for the Kealeys since they have been involved in Sierra Madre Catholic Schools, both St. Rita's and Alverno, where their children attended school. Bob's wife, Carol, is business manager at La Salle High School.

Their father, Ron Kealey, started the Pasadena television and repair business 50 years ago, and his two sons bought the business in 1960.

Frank and Jerry Russo with to thank the Sierra Madre community for their business support, and for prayers during Frank's recent illness.

The Morants Ferret Out Canals

By Midge Morash

The term "industrial archaeology" is, in all probability, unfamiliar to most of us. The word "archaeology" conjures up scenes of digs in ancient cities; dedicated researchers meticulously sifting the earth, carefully brushing from their finds the "sands of time."

Industrial archaeology, being concerned with the artifacts of the relatively recent Industrial Revolution of the 18th and 19th centuries, does not concern itself with antiquity, but with the realization that the decaying examples of the recent past which are of historical importance, can disappear and are disappearing at an alarming rate, to be lost to future generations as part of our historical past. The all-too-ready impulse to redo, improve on, and redesign has frequently caused the obliteration of unique early examples of our industrial heritage.

Bev William Morant and his wife Dollie, who live here in Sierra Madre, have become enthusiastic supporters of the concept of industrial archaeology, and particularly where it concerns old canals and waterways. Morant explained that the idea of industrial archaeology is only about 15 years old, and had its beginnings in England.

In the '60s, the Morants took a boating trip on the Thames river in England, were intrigued with the hand-operated locks on the Oxford Canal near London, and it was brought to their attention that the old locks were a part of the history of British waterways.

They learned that after World War II, interest in restoring the deteriorating canals of England was developed by a few British boaters who believed that the canals would be beautiful as pleasure boating canals. Canal societies were formed, and over the years, through research, planning, fundraising and organized volunteer work, enough quality restoration was evidenced that government grants were made available to supplement funds from the public.

The pastime of leisurely floating the rivers and canals of England, through quiet countryside and busy old towns continues to increase in popularity.

The Morants have returned to England numerous times to enjoy the boating and have even taken an active part in the muddy, grubby business of the actual restorations. They come home each time filled with enthusiasm for the possibility of restoration of the old canals of our own industrial revolution, part of our own industrial archaeology. They ask if England can do it, why can't we?

At the present time, England has nearly 2000 miles of restored canals, which involve a multi-million dollar history-oriented recreation industry. There are numerous commercial "holiday" boat companies which rent (book) cruisers, narrowboats and hotel-boats for use on Britain's rivers and canals.

The most ambitious, successful and best-known of all the canals in the United States was the Erie Canal, built during the Industrial Revolution in New York State, completed in 1825, and linking, in its 363 miles, Albany on the Hudson River to Buffalo on Lake Erie.

After 1850, when railroads were gaining strength, the era of the small canals faded. The New York Barge Canal has replaced the Erie Canal and runs parallel to the old ghost for many miles.

It is the searching out of such old canals, hiding among trees and grasses, slowly decaying away, that the Morants look on as a sport that should be enjoyed by more people with the ultimate reward being the use of these canals in restoration as waterways for small craft.

Last summer the Morants took a 10,000-mile trip on what they call a "canal talking. experience." They lectured to historical and canal societies and discovered that these groups in Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio and other states, are "talking" history and, for the most part, are not interested in actual canal restoration.

This coming summer, Bev and Dollie Morant will be trading homes with the Stanley Clovers who are actively involved with the restoration of canals and locks in England. Their home is on the Avon River, and with a boat as part of the bargain, the Morants will be back to the scenes of their original inspiration.

Mayor suggests TV study, chamber economic survey

In his general concerns, Mayor Bartolai raised the spectre of increased taxes to fund the Public Employees Retirement System fund. (PERS presently costs about $226,000 a year.)

Bartolai, referring to the present expenditure of $12,000 for the services of the Pasadena Humane Society, said, "We must either seek improvements or pursue alternatives."

The existing cable TV franchise also drew the attention of the Mayor. He urged the creation of a cable TV foundation to oversee the required annual grant of $5000 by the present franchisee, Group W. He also urged the creation of a cable TV study committee to serve as an administrative watch dog on citizen's complaints on cable TV.

Sierra Madre's newly-elected Mayor also set forth eight specific proposals to be accomplished during his term. These included appointing a parking commission composed of residents other than the city council members, filling the position of Director of Community Services, establishment of a tree preservation ordinance, and establishment of a study committee to pursue the pros and cons of a two-term limitation on the city's appointive commissions and boards.

Mayor Bartolai also suggested the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce spearhead an economic development task force for the city to devise plans and programs to bring new businesses in to the city, to review existing geographic limits to the business district and to suggest where redevelopment projects in the downtown area would benefit the city and the business community. Bartlaoi suggested this as a way for the city and the chamber of commerce to "work hand in hand to assist in achieving what is best for the city."

Finally, the determination of wants and needs of all the city's residents by way of a city-wide canvas was proposed by Bartolai. He said, "I believe the time has come when it would be beneficial to canvass the entire community in an effort to assess their needs and desires." This could be done, according to the Mayor, by means of a specially-prepared questionnaire to be given to all residents for completion.

The appointments Charles Corp asked clarification on involved the appointment of the delegate and alternate to the San Gabriel Valley Association of Cities. As originally proposed prior to Tuesday night's meeting, the delegate would be retiring Mayor Carlyle Griffin with newly-elected Mayor Pro Tem Thomas Edwards as alternate.

When questioned by Corp on the change, Bartolai stated his conversations with Edwards led him to believe Edwards wished to be relieved of the responsibility. When this was denied by Edwards, Bartolai withdrew his own name and suggested the appointment of Edwards as alternate delegate.

● Red Dowding brought in an old copy of the Sierra Madre News---and we enjoyed leafing through it.

As if to herald the problems Sierra Madre is having again, the lead story concerns changing Kersting Court parking to parallel on the north side. "About 90 percent of the businessmen and merchants in Sierra Madre are opposed to parallel parking. They contend business would suffer if the present system is changed." We won't have to hurdle changing the system, but we are continuing to worry about business people insisting on parking their cars on the streets.

● I am not popular with my employees because I placed a fine of 10¢ on each employee if I see any of the cars parked on the city streets.

Some of the remarks on the staff bulletin I sent around were interesting. But I haven't seen any of "our" cars on the streets since sending the bulletin around. Except for George's "car"---the ambulance.

● And speaking of the ambulance, Thursday was "A" day---when representatives of the Sierra Madre Fire Dept. EMTs ordered that beautiful new red and white ambulance. What a vehicle that will be---complete with red carpet because that's the sort of treatment people get when they have to be transported in the Sierra Madre ambulance.

● Emily Jones, well-loved third grade teacher at Sierra Madre School, had surgery a week ago and is in Intercommunity Hospital, 303 N. 3rd, Covina, Room 281A. We're sure Emily would love hearing from parents, students and former students...

● Warry Sanders tells us she's going back to Lincoln, Neb. to celebrate her 50th year as a University of Nebraska graduate and the 54th year of Lincoln High School. She says her best, best, best friend is coming in from Shreveport, La. We told Warry she must have been one of those "Whiz Kids" because we don't believe it's been 50 years since she's been to college.

● What a delightful experience to be included in that prestigious group of volunteers at Sierra Madre Public Library. And what a feast they fed us. We're sure that the first requirement to being accepted as an employee of the library is to be a great cook. From the luscious pre-brunch juice through the quiche it was wonderful. Thanks so much to you all.

● Overheard from Margaret Duran at the library volunteers brunch: "My mother always said, 'Just because kittens are born in the oven doesn't mean they're biscuits'."

● Rudy Hartman attended his 66th class reunion at the 34th annual "Half Century Club," USC, last Tuesday. Of the 500 who were present, Rudy was the only one from his class of 1917. But then,

Animal lovers: salute your pet

All you animal lovers should mark May 1-7 on your calendars since that is National Pet Week. And the southern California Veterinary Medical Association has announced a central "Good Health Headquarters" where information will be available. The center will be manned by operators weekdays from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. beginning Friday and will continue until next Friday, May 6.

Pet owners wishing to obtain the names of local veterinarians offering free pet exams during the celebration should call the headquarters at (714) 750-1861. An additional toll-free number (800-VPI-PETS) can be used starting May 4.

More than 200 southland veterinary hospitals have registered for the program.

On May 1, all dog owners may bring their pets to the nearest Los Angeles County Animal Shelter for a free wash.

"Just bring a leash and a towel, and prepare to have a good time," Acting Department Head Brian Berger advises volunteers who will bathe the dogs. First proclaimed in 1915, "Be Kind to Animals Week" is the oldest commemorative week in the nation.

The closest animal shelter to this foothill area is 4275 N. Elton Ave., Baldwin Park, 962-3574.

Buckle up your child and save his life now

May 7-14 is designated "Child Passenger Safety Week" throughout the state of California, as proclaimed by Gov. George Deukmejian.

The vital need to protect children from horrendous effects of auto accidents should be uppermost in al our minds since it is the number one killer and major crippler of children in this country.

According to statistics released by CHP in 1982, 127 child passengers were killed in automobile accidents and another 17,824 were injured. There are an estimated additional 3573 injuries not reported because a child, but not a car, was damaged.

Tom Vincello of the L.A. Police Dept., states that the majority of fatalities occur in accidents involving cars travelling at less than 40 MPH.

"Hitting the concrete pavement from a three-story building has the same impact on a child as coming to a dead stop at 30 MPH," Vincello says.

Research reported by the L.A. Area Child Passenger Assn. indicates that over 85% of the deaths and 66% of the injuries from car accidents could be prevented by the regular use of safety belts and car safety seats. Yet today fewer than 10% of California's children are properly secured while traveling in motor vehicles.

A new California law, effecitve Jan. 1, 1983, requires resident drivers to buckle up children under 4 years or 40 pounds in safety seats or available seat belts.

Parents of children, let's all remember how important it is that our children receive the same care as our cars. Buckle up and save your child's life.

PERRET-SCOPE

by Gene Perret

I give several after dinner speeches each year. It's the ham in me.

I love applause. I figure after about 20 more talks I'll start getting some.

No, actually in every one of my talks I've gotten a standing ovation. You'd be surprised how long it takes to hot wire all those chairs.

I love speaking after meals. My wife kids me about it. She says I do 10 minutes if someone opens a gum wrapper.

I figure if you have to go to banquets you might as well be the speaker. It means you get to be the first one to stand up and straighten out your shorts.

I'm also in it for the financial rewards. If I can just attend two more banquets my silverware set will be complete.

* * *

I'm a speaker, too, because I happen to like airplane food. I also enjoy root canal work.

It's fun playing that game that the airlines like so much. . .hide the luggage.

I traveled over 50,000 miles speaking last year which is not really a lot. My luggage traveled over 100,000.

Travel is so educational. I can now say "Kaopectate" in five different languages.

Traveling as a speaker is very profitable, too. Someone else pays for the hotel room but I get to keep the towels.

I also give frequent talks in my old neighborhood. With many of my appearances I can leave the banquet hall, get into my car, and be in my own house within 10 or 15 minutes. That may not sound like much to you but with the talks I give, to me it can be a lifesaver.

It was much appreciated by all.

A few items of interest were shared by all of us that attended the reunion.

You captured the idea of the Sierra Madre Canyon as remembered by us.

Thanks to Jean Otto

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Jean (Goodsell) Otto for all her efforts and work it took to arrange for the Canyon reunion picnic. We certainly had a good time, visiting with friends we had not seen for 30 years. Playing softball, throwing frisbees and seeing children of the children playing in the playground. It was all very enjoyable. For all the people who didn't come, you sure missed a fun day.

Thank you again, Jean, for all your "hard" work. It was greatly appreciated.

'I remember' from Monrovia

(The following excerpts were taken from a letter received from a Monrovia neighbor. He enjoyed reading about the meeting of the "Canyon Kids," and offered the following remembrances for other "Kids." Ed.)

May I share a couple of memories with you about what I remember?

First of all, if I remember right, I was the "King" of the 1952 Aquacade Pageant, and the prettiest little girl in town by the name of Anita Dunlap was my queen. This was all part of the theme of the show. I remember I had to dive off the high diving board into the water and swim across to the other side of the pool where the queen was. This was the opening number in the pageant. Boy, this was my first chance in show business! Well, it seemed that my swimming trunks were a little large, so when I dived off the diving board and hit the water, my trunks kind of slipped down a little — to my knees.

I remember: — The cold, cold swimming pool water on Mondays, because they always changed the water on Sundays.

I remember: — Rag-tag with a knotted up wash rag.

I remember: — The first high dive — a long tree trunk with pieces of wood nailed in it to crawl up.

I remember: — Jumping off old lady's what's-her-name's roof into the swimming pool.

I remember: — The most wonderful smell in the world of hamburgers frying in the little shack in the pool area, and they only cost 35c.

I remember: — The "humungus" dill pickles you could buy across the street at the little market for only 5c.

I remember: — Always slipping on the wet decks and "old lady Smith" (Audrey) blowing her whistle at us.

I remember: — Scrounging up pop bottles early in the morning so I could get enough money every day to go to the swimming pool — It cost 25¢ to get in — and that was a lot of pop bottles to Sierra Madre wildflower buffs can combine a glorious Desert Spectacular with Old Home Week in Johnson Valley, if they hurry, according to Elizabeth and Harold Spears.

Johnson Valley is where ex-Sierra Madreans Myrt and Red Waite reside and get-aways are maintained by Martha and Stan Coutant, Mary and Roy Estoppey, Midge and Tal Morash, Sherry and Mike Sizer, Ann and Jim Tyler, and Noreen and Stan Waite, along with former Sierra Madreans Betty and Dean Dawson.

The Spears raved about the wildflower display, which they viewed a week ago. Ann Tyler, who was their tour guide, reports that the show is one of the best she has ever seen, including desert dandelion, coreopsis, canterbury bells, beaver tail cactus, ocotillo, rare desert lilies and vast "snow-drifts" of desert primrose.

Ann estimates the flowers will last another two weeks, at most.

To get there, take Cajon Pass to the Lucerne Valley cut-off and drive 22 miles past Lucerne, or, as an alternate, take Freeway 10 through Morongo Valley to Yucca Valley and 25 miles west. Johnson Valley lies between Lucerne Valley and Yucca Valley. Take along Auto Club maps of Los Angeles & Vicinity, Riverside County and San Bernardino County, however, since it is Big Country out there.

Best part of the show is that, if you get lost or lonesome, or think you may be missing some special spot, just knock on any door. Chances are it will be one of the Home Town Folk.

Barlow House Plans Spring Sale

Barlow Guild House announces their annual Spring Thing sale April 29 and 30th and May 1. The Friday evening hours are 6 to 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, the Guildhouse will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Guildhouse has long been recognized by discriminating area shoppers for its outstanding selection of unique gift items — both handcrafted and imported — for all ages. It was the first importer of the beautiful hand painted, carved wooden ducks and birds from China.

The Guildhouse is totally staffed by volunteers. All profits are donated to Barlow Hospital. The hospital, over 80 years old, was started by Dr. Walter Jarvis Barlow, as a tuberculosis sanitorium. The same Dr. Barlow built the villa which is now part of Alverno High School in Sierra Madre.

Barlow Hospital, affiliated with USC, specializes in the treatment of respiratory diseases. Recently, an additional respiratory section was added. The Guildhouse is located at 2000 Stadium Way, Los Angeles.

PERFUME IS DANGEROUS

By Joe Delgatto

Pardon my levity, ladies, but perfume is not only dangerous to the men it lures — or the women who do the luring (depending on the point of view) — it's also dangerous to the clothes you wear.

I know that Romance is one thing, and the cold practical considerations like the price of the dress are more than another. But the offense I'm speaking of is this: Why put the perfume on your clothes?

Perfumes, those essences of allure, are strong chemicals. Applying them to fabrics liberates the dyes or contributes to deteriorating the cloth. Or both. Isn't that too high a price to pay for your triumph?

Dab the perfume on your skin wherever you feel it will work best for you. In the palm of the hand, on the wrist, back of the ears, maybe a touch at the throat. Then the perfume becomes a part of you, and not a disguise.

Here's another good reason for keeping perfumes away from fabrics. The chemicals in perfume loosen sizing, not only causing damage but in some instances volatilizing the odors of that sizing.

Briefly, then, applying the perfume to yourself is more effective than applying it to clothes. And the saving of clothes is an extra bonus besides.

For good cleaning by people who understand it

CCC assists city in Rally and cleans up town

Members of the California Conservation Corps were in Sierra Madre last week, assisting the city with areas which needed cleaning up.

They cleared the area along the fence at Sycamore Place in the spreading grounds, cut a handicapped access trail at Mt. Wilson Trail Park behind Richardson House and worked toward reconstructing the upper trail in Bailey Canyon. And they plan to return to clear up sections of the Mt. Wilson Trail before the race May 28.

Supervisor of the group is Ellen Piepenbrink whose parents, Robert and Florence Piepenbrink, live in Sierra Madre. The CCC members come from the San Gabriel Canyon headquarters of the CCC.

David Dayton was the crewleader of the group who came, and others included Linda Follis and Michael Draper. Gary Eaton is the new coordinator of the headquarters office.

Piepenbrink said there are 50 young people who work out of the San Gabriel Canyon headquarters. "This kind of work is right up our alley," Piepenbrink said of the rock moving, raking, clearing out that they did in Sierra Madre.

She said she had been with the CCC for four years and was on the crew that installed the exercise court at Sierra Vista Park east of town.

TRASH CARRIED AWAY AT NO COST TO CITY — Western Waste, located at Santa Fe Springs, hauled 162 tons of trash away for Sierra Madre following the Resource Rally last week in which everyone in the city cleaned up homes, yards and businesses.

CCC YOUTH ASSIST SIERRA MADRE AT BAILEY CANYON, AROUND TOWN — Linda Follis, 19; David Dayton, 21, crew leader who is standing; Michael Draper, 23, kneeling; and Supervisor Ellen Piepinbrink are all California Conservation Corps representatives who spent part of last week in Sierra Madre repairing areas around town. Here they are joined by Jennie Jacobson-Huse, parks and recreation director, at Bailey Canyon. Sierra Madre News Photo

Sierra Madreans in L.A. production

On Apr. 30 and May 1 at 8 p.m., the Los Angeles City Cultural Affairs Department/Performing Arts Division will present the Back for the Summer Players in Cole Porter's hilarious musical-comedy "Anything Goes." Due to capacity filled houses, these two performances have been added.

Featured in the comic lead roles of gangster Moonface Martin and his moll Bonnie are Sierra Madreans Frank Ferrante and Cindy Danne.

"Anything Goes" is being performed at Hollywood's Gallery Theatre in Barnsdall Park. This current production stemmed from a highly successful run last August at St. Rita's Parish Hall which was produced by the Back for the Summer Players, an independent organization of local youths. The summer production of "Anything Goes" was picked up and is now being sponsored by the city of Los Angeles Cultural Affairs Dept./Performing Arts Division.

As for future summer productions in Sierra Madre at St. Rita's being presented by the Summer Players, the likelihood is there; St. Rita's has shown great interest in the young group.

The Gallery Theatre is located at 4800 Hollywood Blvd. Donations are Adults---$3.50, students and Sr. Citizens---$2.50 and children---$1.50. Reservations may be made by calling 485-2460.

RESIDENTS POUR INTO DUMPING AREA WITH TRASH — It was a record turnout Saturday for Sierra Madreans who took advantage of the free cleanup trash pickup day. They came in droves with trash in pickups, cars, U-hauls and trucks with all types of junk. Here they wait their turn to unload northeast of the recycling center at Sierra Vista Park. According to Laurie Cooper, who was in charge of the Resource Rally, between nine and 10 tons of paper was delivered, and containers for glass were overflowing. Sierra Madre News Photo

SIERRA MADREANS PARTICIPATE IN MUSICAL — Frank Ferrante and Cindy Danne, both of Sierra Madre, are appearing in the Cole Porter musical, "Anything Goes," held at the Gallery Theater, Barnsdall Park, Hollywood.

Those who wish to attend should make reservations at a $10 donation by calling Jerri McCarthy, 355-1723, or Judy Jarvis at 359-1660. Babysitting is available with reservations.

The show and luncheon will be held at St. Rita's Church Hall.

Sons of Italy donate time, energy for good

The Order Sons of Italy in America is known for its service to the community ever since its founding in 1922.

The purpose of the order is to unite everyone of Italian heritage to the cultural ways of America, and the order supports the Constitution of the U.S.

Some of the projects they participate in are Toys for Tots, providing over 200 scholarships for students who cannot afford to go to college; and contributing over $12 million to various programs toward stamping out birth defects.

The Order Sons of Italy in America won the 1977 Isabella Coleman Award for the Rose Parade float and won the 1978 Queen's trophy.

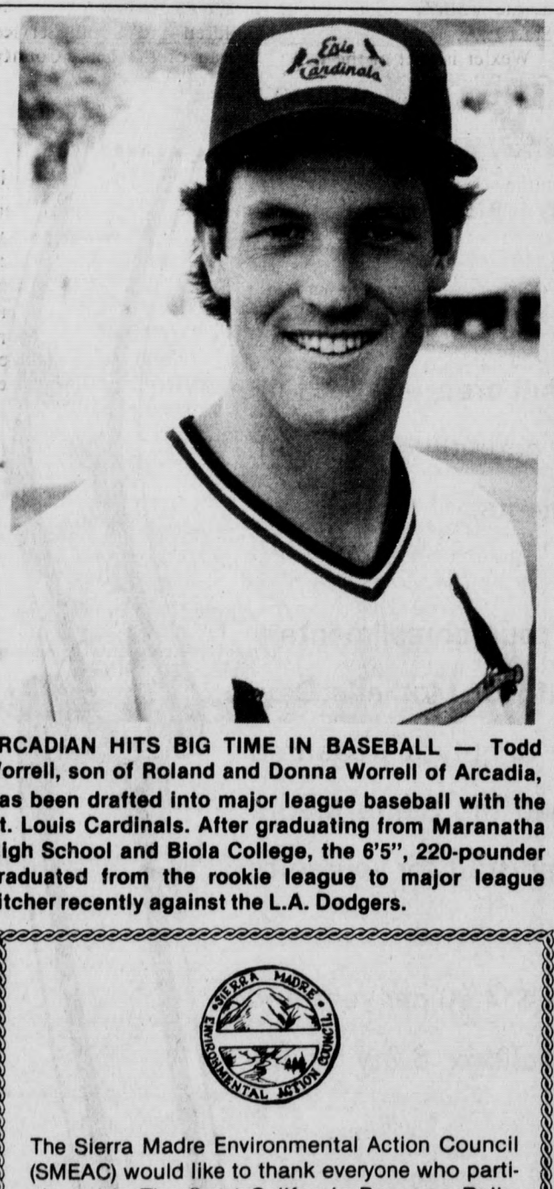

Anyone who would like more information regarding membership should call Joe D'Amore, Venerable, Arcadia-Sierra Madre Lodge, at 223-8890, or Gary Mazza, Ex-Venerable, 446-0605.

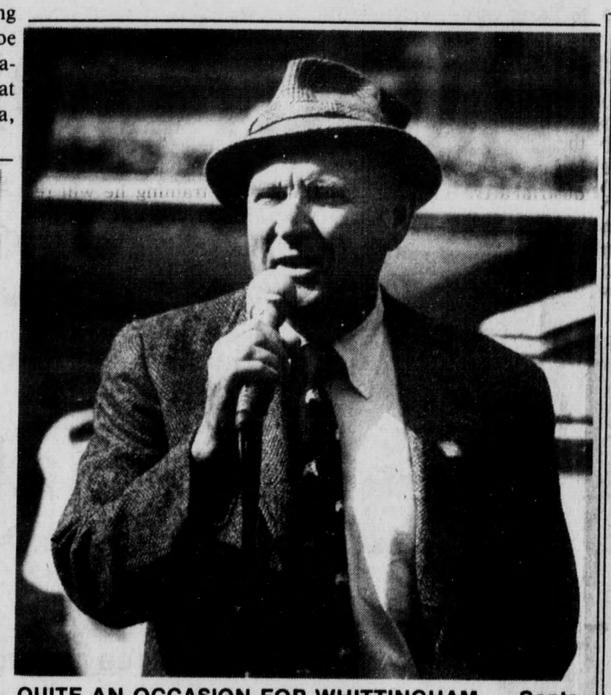

Jazz to rock library on Friday, Apr. 29

The rhythmic beat of "The Night Blooming Jazzmen," playing Dixieland jazz, will sing out Friday, Apr. 29, at 8 p.m. at the Sierra Madre Public Library. Chet Jaeger and his musicians will present this free concert at the library as the April offering of the "Fridays At Eight" monthly musical programs.

Accompanying Chet will be Pieter Meijers, clarinet; Dick Doner, trombone; Morris Huff, piano; Tom Raftican, drummer; George Olson, string bass; and Tommy Hearn on banjo. The group has played extensively throughout Southern California and made several recordings.

The monthly musical series. "Fridays At Eight" is sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

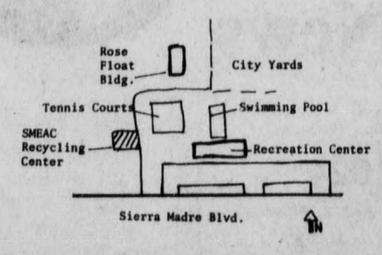

ARCADIAN HITS BIG TIME IN BASEBALL — Todd Worrell, son of Roland and Donna Worrell of Arcadia, has been drafted into major league baseball with the St. Louis Cardinals. After graduating from Maranatha High School and Biola College, the 6'5", 220-pounder graduated from the rookie league to major league pitcher recently against the L.A. Dodgers.

QUITE AN OCCASION FOR WHITTINGHAM — Santa Anita Park saluted Charles Whittingham on his 70th birthday April 13 with a winner's circle tribute and an eight-foot cake forming "70," which was given to backstretch workers later in the stable cafeteria. the track announced that a bust of Whittingham will be commissioned and placed in the paddock gardens along with statues of Seabiscuit, John Longden, Bill Shoemaker, George Woolf and Joe Hernandez. Whtiingham has registered more stakes wins and more wins in $100,000 stakes than any trainer in history. He trained five national champions from Porterhouse in 1953 to Perrault, champion male turf horse last year.

The Sierra Madre Environmental Action Council (SMEAC) would like to thank everyone who participated in The Great California Resource Rally, April 18 - 24.

We hope that everyone will continue bringing their recyclable materials . . . paper, aluminum and glass to the SMEAC Recycling Center located in Sierra Vista Park.

The Recycling Center is open 24 hours a day.

Expert of the week . . . Unique 'vet' brings care to pet

Dr. Francis Neville

It shouldn't surprise anyone that Dr. Francis N. Neville's profession is veterinary medicine since he's worked with animals nearly all his life.

And his "Pet House Calls" is a unique and seemingly necessary service. In this day when house calls of any kind seem to be almost obsolete, Dr. Neville will travel anywhere in the valley to treat a pet.

His practice has embraced all sizes, too---from as small as guppies to as large as cattle. And as exotic as hawks, owls, snakes.

Which animal would he rather treat? Cats. "If you understand cats you'll have good rapport with them."

He is a "little leery" of treating raccoons and possums but he sometimes does. What illnesses do they usually have? Distemper, some are run over by cars, but mostly he treats them for abscesses since they spend much of their time fighting.

Neville owned the Huntington Drive Animal Hospital in Monrovia from 1969-75 and sold out to the present owner, Liam Pyne, who is straight from Ireland. Then he had spent 10 years in "an informal arrangement" with San Gabriel Humane Society until they asked him to come aboard over a year ago.

He was in the Horse Cavalry for two years in WWII with the Illinois National Guard and then Neville was in his senior year at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. when that "Black Horse Troop of Chicago" was called to federal service, horses and all.

This one-time Nevadan has established a unique veterinary practice---and it is really a convenience to all.

When you have an unruly 150-lb. St. Bernard who refuses to get into the car for a ride to the vet's, call Dr. Neville. He'll come to you.

Chinese auction, luncheon set for May 7, Essick House

Irresistible treasures, from rare cymbidium plants and special gifts donated by local merchants to knick knacks and do dads, will be offered for as little as a nickel, a dime or a quarter at the Sierra Madre Woman's Club's Chinese Auction and Salad Bar Luncheon on Saturday, May 7, at 11 a.m., according to Emily Case, acting club president.

I remember: — Walking barefooted all the way home every day with hazy eyes from the chlorine in the water and walking on people's grass as much as we could because the pavement was too hot.

Now at the young and tender age of 46½ years old, I still remember and it is still wonderful. Thank you for sparking in me a remembrance of many happy days.

From Behind the Wire

By Ed Colucci

Hey coach, what's all the confusion? Big Ed, this ain't confusion. This is organized "T" ball. I stopped in up at Sierra Madre field to have a look at the new crop of big leaguers and due to a goof there were four games going on at one time. Maranatha's field was being used so all the T-ballers were playing all at once.

To be a "T" manager or coach you have to have a keen eye, a soft voice and nerves of steel. You don't really have to be a great play maker. These little kids have a special way of making things work out.

Here are some basics in the game: you have at least nine infielders and as many as you can fit in the outfield. You also hope that the ball isn't hit where there is no one standing. Since the kids are still small you may see a couple of your outfielders laying down out there to have a little rest and do not yell "Here comes the ball" because this can really start something.

I said to one daddy standing next to me, "Did you see that kid?" He said, "Yah, that's my boy and the Dodgers have a scout here to have a look at him."

The little girls seem to have a better hand-eye coordination. They hit the ball more than they do the coach when he tee's up the ball. I love 'um all and we can use them when they grow up.

Here's the outcome of the games: Mets 28-22 over the Angels; Dodgers 29-18 over the Cardinals; Astros 16-8 over the Padres.

And in a rare close one the Cubs 10 to 9 over the Braves.

In L.L. play Ron Schwartz and his Indians notched their first win of the season when they beat the Baldwin Realty team 5-0.

Good gal Shari Carlton passed out the new senior girls T-shirts today and they really look great so there will be a lot more color up at old Heasley Field this year.

Dave Arden is ready to play ball this year. I saw him up at the park and he didn't have a bandaid or an Ace bandage on him anywhere but then again it's still early.

Attention, Brain Frazier, you have tried everything else and mastered none. How about white water rafting? You have to be signed up by May 14 and hope the rivers still have water in them when you take your first shot.

Sorry we missed it but Happy Birthday to Charlie Whittingham of Sierra Madre he was 70 on April 13. Hey, Charlie, how about a tip on a long shot? Best wishes from the News. . .

Maranatha girls are still doing good in softball and are on top in their league--- good going, good going.

See you on the street
